

our mission since 1901

One of America's oldest sock companies.

In 1896, William G. Leininger partnered with his cousin George H. Leininger to start a hosiery mill in Mohnton, Pennsylvania (near Reading—home of Reading Railroad). The business became so successful that both men agreed to dissolve it after two and a half years. The plan allowed both men to continue business independently and each established their own mills in Mohnton PA. William Leininger Hosiery Mills started production of Men's half hose in 1898 and partnered with New York City sales agents. The Railroad Sock name first appeared in advertisements in 1901.

William Leininger continued operation through three generations into the 1970's at which time ownership transferred to Fritz and Dorris Killian who later sold the business to Dennis and Jan Downing after Fritz's death in 1986. In the early Downing years the business owned 40 knitting machines and made only two men's sock styles. Since that time The Railroad Sock has created a comprehensive sock line. After a very successful 36 year run, Dennis and Jan sold the business to Amanda Kunkel-Beech and her brother Charles Kunkel. With Amanda at the helm, they are keeping the emphasis on family-run, high quality, durability, and American manufacturing. Since the beginning of the 20th Century, our mission has always been to provide customers with quality, American-made products at a competitive price.

copper infused socks

Made with copper infused yarns knitted into the terry cushion foot. The “Copper Infusion” process binds copper to various fibers including spun polyester, nylon, and acrylic. These yarns and attention to construction enhance the comfort and wearability in the following ways:

- Antimicrobial
- Promotes a healthier skin environment
- Wicks moisture away from foot
- Reduces odor
- Does not inhibit blood flow
- Improved flat no-show toe seam
- No bind leg provides more stretch
- Stay-up top does not constrict blood flow
- Superior cushion terry and flat no show toe seam for maximum comfort
